Opis produktu

Unique RIGHT graphite suspension arm reduces torsional flex of the arms in corners on very-high traction tracks.

XRAY self-designed graphite front suspension was specially designed for high-traction US-style tracks. With a stiffer front, the car achieves more cornering speed while being easier to drive and more consistent in high-traction conditions.

The graphite arm is mounted on aluminum posts which are mounted to the chassis. The holder for the composite front upper arm mount is mounted on the graphite arm as well.

Features smart eccentric aluminum inserts for quick & easy changes, and track-width set-up to adapt to track conditions.

For use with LEFT arm #372125.

The graphite front suspension was successfully used by the US team, with Eric Anderson winning the US National Championship title in Stock class.
